

Parents, audio-psycho-phonology, integrated into the Aquamater mothering cabin, is a new family therapy approach to solve the problems encountered during a pregnancy punctuated by painful, sad and sometimes dramatic events. It may also be used when the delivery was such an ordeal for the mother and child that psychological after-effects complicate daily life. Furthermore, it is beneficial when the first year was anything but plain sailing but rather a trying obstacle course.

For professionals of the medico-psycho-pedagogical sector, this innovative sensory procedure for both child and family treatment may well be a new drift.

This backing also offers great scope for study where researchers and students will be able to cultivate human sciences with generosity, so as to offer a fertile and welcoming world to new generations.

A.-M. Vermeulen-Saurel

« Aquamater is the only non verbal method of treatment capable of coming to the aid of children suffering from psychological problems thus, according to me, making great strides as compared to traditional therapies ».

Pr. Thomas Verny, psychoanalyst in Toronto, author of “The secret life of the unborn child” , Editions Grasset.

